Hunter x Hunter, Vol. 35 Yoshihiro Togashi

Plucky Gon's quest to find his dad leads him into a whole world of crazy adventure.

Hunters are a special breed, dedicated to tracking down treasures, magical beasts, and even other people. But such pursuits require a license, and less than one in a hundred thousand can pass the grueling qualification exam. Those who do pass gain access to restricted areas, amazing stores of information, and the right to call themselves Hunters.

On their voyage to the Dark Continent, the Hunters get tangled up in a war of royal succession. The 14 princes of Kakin, protected by Nen-powered Guardian Beasts, must assassinate one another until only a single heir survives. Infiltrating as bodyguards, the Hunters join a deadly game of intrigue. But the most dangerous prince may be the one they least suspect...

For me, I was a bit overwhelmed with all of the dialog and new rules. I feel like everything's going on the right direction but I had Trouble keeping up with all of the information and thought it was moving slowly. Just a personal thing, really. I like where it's going though.

Mahra says

"Prince Woble, Will You Trust Me?" (this is where i fainted)

1. everyone's nen beasts are forming up.
2. the 1st prince is no joke, he is all prepared
3. kurapika is stuck in a big twisted game, i hope he survives.
4. ch.366 is wow, 4th prince knows nen, everyone is making their own steps like a chess piece, chorollo looks like he is deep sorrow and darkness.
5. the cockroach is the real MVP lol.
6. the 4th prince nen beast is scary af.
7. the princess died!! omg one down. now its 13 princes left.

this arc is huge ..

Not really a fan of this one I'm afraid 8'D Not sure quite what it is, but something is bugging me :| Possibly the fact that so far during this arc there has been zero Gon or Kil, who I love and miss dearly? 8'D

It's interesting seeing what lengths Kurapika is going to in order to protect the prince that he has been assigned to guard but uhhh... most of it doesn't really interest me I'm afraid. As great as Kurapika is... I want more of Gon or Kil or Leorio or Hisoka or any of the Spiders... I like the resurgence of characters that I love (...or hate sometimes honestly) and with the millions of new characters being introduced (...and for many, killed off) so quickly in this arc it's massively bugging me ._.'

La manera de introducir la problemática de las bestias Nen en el Battle Royale de este arco me parece correcta. Pero por otro lado están dándole demasiada importancia al tema de espías y situaciones que al final casi no es nada relevante para encima dejar en un segundo plano cuando va cayendo la gente.

Espero que para el siguiente tomo se dejen de tonterías y empiecen ir al meollo de las trama empezando con las alianzas y con alguna que otra batallita directa (por favor)

Francisco Silva says

De pronto creo que el 'set up' es un poco demasiado. No obstante igual termino perdiéndome en todos esos detalles (a ratos innecesarios) que terminan siendo el esqueleto (y la justificación del diseño)del arco de sucesión de Kakin.

Los diseños de las bestias-nen de cada príncipe están super bien trabajadas. Así como la estratagema de cada uno.

Kirsten Simkiss says

I have to say, I find the constant explanations of nen use to be a bit much, but the plot is quite interesting given the circumstances. I'm loving the throne warfare.

Yooo! It's like my birthday having found volume 35 at the store. I periodically check the series I enjoy most to make sure I don't miss out. I'll check for volume 36 next time I'm there no matter how unrealistic that may be. Make no mistake Hunter X Hunter is definitely one of my favorites going. Right now, we're still traveling to the dark continent in the midst of royal succession.

I like the seeds being planted here and the volume is entertaining... I just feel like we're entering the territory of too much dialogue, again. There's a weird amount of expository for something that should feel like a narrative. This serves largely as a Kurapika volume, I think he's making up for lost time. As much as I enjoy the lad (post Uvagin fight) there is a lot to be desired from existing characters.

I still support the series and I'm looking forward to the next volume. Godspeed!

Naomi says

I'm just not into this succession story arc. This was way too wordy and not terribly interesting. I miss Gon and Killua.

Libby says

This volume involved a lot of dialogue between Kurapika, the Royal family and bodyguards of the Kankin Princes. Some readers might feel impatient and demand there be more action. For myself, a part of me did feel that there was A LOT of talking going on but I appreciate the careful pacing these past couple volumes. I am confident that Togashi has major things in store for this storyline and won't leave us disappointed.

Kurapika, the Princes and their guards are all in a twisted game of cat and mouse. Now that the existence of Nen and Nen beasts has been revealed everyone is eager to obtain as much information about it from Kurapika in order to get the upper hand against their opponents. (view spoiler). It is not only the princes who have their lives on the line, those who've sworn to protect are also at risk of being killed (and we've seen what happened to the majority of Prince Woble and Queen Oito's bodyguards). The Dark Continent arc is getting even more serious especially now that (view spoiler). If Togashi keeps up the good writing, this arc might surpass the Phantom Troupe arc as my favourite. Time will tell.

Hannah Belyea says

With the journey of the Black Whale officially underway, Kurapika and his allies find themselves and Queen Oito facing threat after threat at the battle between the Kakin princes quickly escalates and the power of nen is stretched farther than ever before! Togashi will have fans intrigued for sure with this entry to the "Hunter X Hunter" series. Just what sort of impact could the mysterious nen beasts have?

Marian says

Throughout this volume we delve further into the world of Kakin and succession arc. The chapters center mostly around Kurapika and the interesting nen beasts. Each nen beast seems more bizarre and unique, just like each of their prince.

Similarly, I was happy to see Leorio and the spiders after while.
