Some days ago I had some free time and as had nothing to do, I started reading this book named " Khuda Aur Muhabat" by Hashim Nadeem just for a time pass thing. As I have known the writer Hashim Nadeem for his beautiful book " Bachpan ka December" I thought, OK I will not get bored of this book..So the story began and I was stuck...!! According to the story written, at a time you are going through two phases of a character's life named Hammad. It is so beautifully and intelligently told that you find this book glued with your hands. Some of the very strange thoughts about religion, love and even the Jews History that were always circulating inside me and bugging my mind were all spread like beads and as I was turning page I was getting more and more convinced , Yes this book is definitely written for me. I loved it. Some of the philosophy is so thought provoking. I don't think so a romance so intense,sincere and tragic has been told before this book. There isn't any complication of characters or story. The writer just writes it away simply without making any struggle to prove himself or to make the book a splendid piece of literature,that is the beauty of this book and it definitely has proven to be among the best stories ever written on the sensitive and controversial topic of religion-VS-Love-thing.I really liked the writers philosophy and the way he got successful in making all us readers think about several issues that really need our attention.So I put down the book when I finished and obviously I was thinking with tears in my eyes. I have never thought of reading the same book again but this book is an exception so I am reading it again and all Urdu Book readers, who haven't read this book yet!! " Hey this book deserves to be the next in your hands.A must read"

Long Live Nadeem Hashim!

I never thought I would like love stories but after reading this book I have changed my mind. Hashim Nadeem uses so simple words to create so profound and overwhelming feelings that sometimes I am forced to reread the passage to see what is so special in these words that are causing this effect on me, but I see nothing out of the ordinary, as if he had cast a spell. I simply cannot find another explanation.

This is a book that I only read when no one was around because it made me cry. Not once but several times. The characters in this book are so passionate one cannot help but feel.

This book is for only those people who are sensitive enough to feel the struggles of others and admire them.

Ammara Abid says

A heart touching novel and as written on the cover page "for everyone who love". This book is simply just love. It made me feel sad and happy. Many scene brought tears to my eyes. Emotional intense piece of writing. Though fictional but it hit me hard.

Few years back when that novel was dramatized I hardly watched 2 or 3 episodes and the last one. But now after reading it, don't know what to say, but they just ruined the beauty of the novel it's excellently written. Didn't like and agree on few things but on the whole a good one to read.

And yes for me it comes under one - sitting novels.

What can i say..I first encountered the story of this book when i was checking out for the first time a Pakistani drama series with the same name. I was quite astonished by the story, but couldn't get hold of the end of it because to my bad luck, the series was only partially translated. I couldn't watch it till the end. I then decided to read the novel, and here i am..I can't remember i have ever felt this way reading a novel before. I'm not much of a novel person, and yet i enjoyed this novel more than any book i ever read. Not to mention that i read the English version which sure doesn't hold as much originality as the Urdu one..and yet I was totally dumbfounded by it. It is certainly a journey worthy of experience.

I read this novel back in 2011 when Geo Adapted it for TV Series. I remember how happy i was to read it because novel was 1000% better than Tv adaptation.

I don't have much experience in urdu literature but i do remember that i cried several times while reading it. I don't really believe in the idea of love at first sight it always seemed so stupid to me . This is what really shocked me that Hammad had only 3 or 4 interactions with Iman but still his love for her seemed so real it totally convinced me, and i loved it so much that i read it 2-3 times in the same year. it was seared onto my heart. and still remember the highlights of it. And as far as i can remember the prose was beautiful. This is by far one of my favourite urdu novel.
