The Emerald Isle Angela Elwell Hunt

Interweaving two captivating stories of romance and intrigue, humor and faith, The Emerald Isle wraps up the multi-colored threads of Angela Elwell Hunt's The Heirs of Cahira O'Connor series in a page-turning conclusion that will satisfy both spirit and heart.

Resisting her confining, traditional role as a king's daughter, fiery-spirited Cahira O'Connor dreams of practicing her bow, not of capturing a husband. But when Norman invaders challenge the borders of the Kingdom of Connacht, Cahira finds both the one man who could win her heart and an irresistible calling to fight for the land and people she loves.

To Kathleen O'Connor, the story of Cahira's deathbed vow was nothing more than a legend - until her research revealed that it was true. Now, in Ireland for the wedding of her best friend Taylor and his fiancée, Maddie O'Neil, Kathleen struggles to fit in at the O'Neils' farm, Ballyshannon, and focus on her research into the life of her ancestor Cahira. There among Ireland's emerald hills, Kathleen finds far more than she could ever have dreamed - including her own unexpected destiny as an heir of Cahira O'Connor.

This book goes between the story of Cahira O'Conner in the 1200's & Kathleen, the author of the series in the stories, in the late 1900's (this book taking place in 1999). 2 love stories & lots of history!

The sections of this book are Kathleen, Cahira, Patrick, Colton, James O'Neil, Rathcroghan, & Ballyshannon. (Main characters & locations)

The story starts in New York city on Thursday, June 17, 1999. The author says that she's a Christian, and sometimes hears the still, small Voice. She was about to cross the street when she heard the Voice tell her to wait...why now? The light changed & she waited for something terrible to happen. A girl commented on the book she had been reading, but didn't want to give away the ending...since they didn't know each other, how could she hold anything against her? The girl tells her how the book ends. They decided to eat together, & a new friendship was formed!

The new Irish friend was Maddie O'Neil & when Taylor arrived it looked like they would get along together. The waitress suggested hot tea, but the author ordered diet soda. She ordered her usual sandwich, but Taylor ordered the same as Maddie. Maddie had never heard of Cahira O'Connor, but it was a common Irish name. Taylor described who she was & described the subjects of the books Kathleen had written. He also talked to Maddie about his favorite author, Rudyard Kipling. Kathleen drank her soda, while listening to the conversation she had heard before. Couldn't someone else have played matchmaker?

Why do people fall in love? Taylor invited Maddie to go with them to the museum opening they had planned to go to on Friday. As they left the museum, Taylor invited both women to a movie the next night, Maddie accepted, Kathleen excused herself. So Kathleen spent Saturday night in her apartment with her dog, Barkley, discussing the situation with him. She had hoped that she & Taylor would have gotten together eventually. Just the thought of Taylor & Maddie made her feel tense.

Reading this book made me want to go to Ireland. Loved it

Margaret Roberts says

An intriguing end to the heirs of Cahira O'Connor; Kathleen unwillingly finds herself in Ireland, going back to where everything began. Stuck in a romance she feels she shouldn't be involved in, Kathleen finds herself caught between her new 'friend' and the man that she-at least thought-she pictured herself marrying. Seeking Cahira's back story and what made her pray that her heirs would 'shine like the stars' and 'bring good in this dark world', Kathleen is left to figure out what path she must take and whether Patrick O'Neil must take the path with her. This book is a great conclusion, though it is not what I expected as the ending; somehow I expected a bit more of a grander ending for the heir.

4.00 stars - rated pg

I'm very slowly going through all my bookshelves and trying to catalogue books bought and read in years gone by. Stars and ratings are mere guesses at this point.

This was a fun, sweet and inspirational series. Really enjoyed the women in these books and also have a great desire to add Ireland to my list of places I'd like to visit.

Timothy Boyd says

Pretty good historical fiction series. The main character goes to Ireland to discover her families past. Each book is a tale of one of the important women she is descended from. Recommended

Julie says

This was a satisfying (though slightly fragmented) ending to the Cahira O'Connor lineage story. It's a tale of finding bravery and purpose from looking at the women who came before.

Sherri says

It was a nice ending to the Cahira O'Connor series although not as good as the previous three. The story didn't flow as well and I felt something was missing.

Theresa Cloud Eagle says

Love the entire series. Couldn't stop until I finished the last book!

Lisa Peterson says

Kathleen O'Conner you inspire me!

I have enjoyed this series immensely! Angela Hunt makes learning history so fun! Her immaculate research always adds fascinating details to her many layered story lines. Truly just a joy to read. A four instead of a five because her most recent books are even better!

Jeni Enjaian says

I read this book long ago and enjoyed it then. However, after the immense disappointment of the first book in the series, as well as another book by this same author, I have chosen not to waste time on reading the remainder of the series.

This book did not survive the second round of the purge from my personal collection.
