We have all heard, or seen, the crazy world of adults dating. From blind dates to speed dating, it may all seem too desperate. But speed dating for teenagers? Mads, Lina, and Holly are back in this fifth installment of THE DATING GAME series. After the unfair events of parents wanting to shut down the website, the girls are ready to take it to the next level. Instead of having to pair couples up by using information about each person submitted to the website, they decide to let their classmates do the talking by creating speed dating. So they set up their plans at the widely popular Vineland Café, and invite kids from their school to meet and greet the opposite sex. Each person writes comments about whoever they meet so that Mads, Lina, and Holly are able to pair them up perfectly.

But the new addition to the website isn't the only thing that the girls have to worry about. Mads is definitely trying to learn to kiss her boyfriend, Stephen, the right way, without him having to pull away. Lina has to deal with the consequences when she starts to write about the very familiar couple Tess and Peter in her new blog. And the newly single Holly has to decide if the guy she accidentally met at the speed dating event is real or not. The girls are definitely back with much bigger problems than before.

SPEED DATING was a great addition to this page-turning series. Although some of the important characters from previous novels do not make their way into this story as much as before, Mads, Lina, and Holly still keep your attention. After reading this novel, SPEED DATING sounds better than ever.

The new Dating Game feature, called Speed Dating, is where you get 5 minutes with a person of the opposite sex and then switch, going down the line of people. Mads and Holly are looking for love, so of course they try it (it was, after all, their idea...) and Mads finds no one who likes her but Yucky Gilbert, the 12-year-old freshman. And Holly finds a guy who reminds Sebastiano of a telenovela character...a little too much!

I thought this book was really good and the only thing that I did not like is that some of these girls believe in true love at first sight and I dont believe that, but had really good parts in this story and just really liked the book.

"I never saw it coming. I thought everything was fine. I thought we were in love". Holly a teenage girl at a school called Rosewood School for Alternative Gifted just broke up with her boyfriend. She was feeling really down. Just like any other girl she felt like nothing can make her forget about her boyfriend Rob.

Madison and Lina both Holly's friends tried many ways to cheer her up but it was no use. One day her friend suggested Holly to go on a speed date so she can find a new guy.

This book shows me how other girls would deal with love problems. It shows other teenage girls that they are not the only one having the problem. It also shows parents how their daughter might be feeling and how they can help cheer them up. Although their daughter will or will not tell them anything about their love life at least they get to have an idea of how they feel.

This book is like treasure, precious and golden. Once I read this book I could not put it down. Every chapter is worth to read. I recommend this book to anyone who wants to know about ways to deal with breakup and to parents who want to know how their daughter really feels.
