Jack squinted at three boys blocking the hallway. His History class was on the second floor. He was on the third. He had walk past the three guys to get to the stairway leading down. The middle one, a tall dark-haired kid had that half-scared, half-pissed off look on his face that usually signaled a fight. Being well-behaved while fighting would prove to be very difficult.

Surreal says

So much fun! A great short story, and fun to see things from George & Jack's point of view. This further proves that Jack falls into trouble, and George gets into trouble rescuing Jack. Definitely worth a read.

Carolyn F. says

This story is on the authors' website.

I'm trying to place the timeline of this story in relation to the series. Good story. Very short.

~Melissa~ says

Poor Jack ~ all talk and no action, lol

---

Renee B. says

These two brothers are my favorite! When they had that cameo in the Innkeeper series, I was so thrilled!! Yay for this short story.

Beth says

Ah Jack -- they are quite unreasonable aren't they? :D

3 Stars... This is a free short story found on the author's website... It appears to take place several years after the first book in the series and focuses on Jack and George while at school... Of course, Jack runs into some problems with a group of students and finds himself having to potentially fight his way out of it... It was an interesting glimpse of Jack and George as they get older and are developing their personalities; I felt there were some pieces missing for me and may be filled in as I continue the series; we shall see:)
