PL says

The Perseus Gate novels are so fun; I swear the author is writing them only when he is in a laughing mood. I think that's why I like them :)

Tom McDonald says

Still into the story.

The story is intriguing and the science beyond the imagination aspect is correct so you stay involved in the story.

Janette says

Another exciting chapter

Great characters and a wondrous new world - built around a star! Still fighting the bad guys, but this episode has an unusual twist to it. Very enjoyable read!

Joe Pranaitis says

Author M. D. Cooper continues the voyages of Sabrina and her crew with the Last Bastion of Star City. The crew of Sabrina are split up again as they are trying to get passed the Stillwarter nebula but they run into the Orian Guard. Jessica and her husband take the Sexy and go ahead to Star City a place that we find out is a Dyson Sphere and that is home to trillions of people who are on their way to ascending. (What Daniel Jackson and the ancients did in StarGate SG-1 and Atlantis) While at the Dyson Sphere they meet the custodian of the Sphere who maintains not only the Sphere but the people who live in the Dream (an alternate reality sim) Where Jessica and her AI Iris and her husband give birth to the next generation of Bastions who will forever protect Star City. This is a great book and I highly recommend it. Also I recommend if you're interested in stories featuring a Dyson Sphere there is the novelization of the ST:TNG episode Relics and the ST:TNG book Dyson Sphere. I am looking forward to the last two books in this season and starting season 2.

What a twist....

Surprise after surprise, Jessica and the crew have the most diverse experiences...never saw this coming.

Great novella from the series.

Ann Zdunczyk says

Loved it

So much happens in this one! Jess, Trevor and Iris have 16 children in The Dream to become Bastions to protect Star City. Can't wait for the next one!!

Carl Alvey says

Well thought out book with intriguing, developed characters. M.D. Cooper is a great story teller and he has me hooked. I keep coming back for more of his stories.

Don Moore says

So amazing, right up until Cooper laid some mathematics on me. Come on bro, I hated remedial math in college and it still gives me the shivers. Was that supposed to be a horror story? Thanks again.

Scott says

It just keeps getting better and better

In this one the tech gets better, the story takes massive leaps forward in terms of possibilities and in reader interest. Its very hard to talk about this Aeon 14 story without doing spoilers but all i can say is you won't be disappointed at all.

Oh and i hope the author hurrys up with the next one as this will have you on the edge of your seat.

Gareth says

I really enjoy this story - it provides a bit more information around possible pathways humanity can take in the Aeon14 universe, which I always find quite fascinating. Star City is quite an impressive and fascinating place, and still retains a bit of mystery about it. After the previous story being very much a Jessica and Sera show, good to have the whole crew involved in this one, with a few surprises / unexpected turns for the characters along the way.

Zachary says

I've got to give it to Cooper, he really does have a grand imagination. I really hope he returns to Star City in a later book or series, and that we see Jessica and Trevor's children again...this was a very awesome and grand concept. The novella is short, but it had a poignancy to it which I really enjoyed.

[note, you probably won't enjoy or appreciate this book if you haven't at least read the rest in the Perseus Gate series]

Marti says

Jessica and Trevor go to Star City to learn the only safe path through the dark layer. They find an AI but no people. The cities are all deserted. Desereted, that is, except for the world full of Dreamers who must be protected. But how?

Great plot, wonderful characters, action, romance and more!
