Sensual Phrase, Vol. 7 Mayu Shinjo

As a budding poet and lyricist, Aine is on her way to an audition one fateful afternoon. Absentmindedly stepping into the street, she barely avoids getting struck by an oncoming vehicle. Not only is the cute teenager lucky to be alive, but her brush with death turns out to be a date with destiny. The driver of the car just happens to be Sakuya, the charismatic and fabulously handsome lead singer for a band called Lucifer. In short order, Sakuya and his crew compose a song using Aine's lyrics. The tune proves popular with the band's fans and Sakuya decides he wants a relationship, both professional and personal, with Aine. Thereafter only one small requirement: The lyrics Aine writes must be erotically charged. And guess what? Sakuya fully intends to introduce the young and inexperienced girl into the world of sensual delights. Does Sakuya actually care for Aine, or is she just another sexual conquest for him? Will Aine fulfill her dreams and become a professional lyricist, or has she simply sold her soul to Lucifer?

From Reader Review Sensual Phrase, Vol. 7 for online ebook

Sianeka says

Introducing the newest bad guys on the scene and the latest guy to fall gaga over Aine. D-Element is the name of Lucifer's new adversary, and it's up to Sakuya to save Aine yet again from their evil clutches. This volume is a bit more trite and formulaic than some of the others in this series, but I still want to follow author/manga-ka Mayu Shinjo's story and so I will be checking out the next volume in this rock n roll saga.

Is a great book to read

This one was okay. I feel like the same thing keeps happening. It's always someone is after Aine, or someone is after Sakuya. I think I'd like to see something else happen. Like maybe some drama from her parents end on her living with Sakuya, or maybe a run in with the Sakuya's dad. Maybe even a shake up between the band members.

My Thoughts:

D-Element... I'd forgotten them, too. I remember why I dislike them so much, though. Doing that to Aine was just plain fucked up. I don't care how successful you want to be, doing that to a person makes you awful.

And then of course, one of them goes and falls for Sakuya. I'm glad she protected him like that and it sucks that she got hurt so badly, but I don't like how she's taking advantage of the situation.

Speaking of taking advantage of a situation, Ralph is back in town and totally letting Aine do something she'd never do sober. I wish she wouldn't feel so insecure that she put herself in the situation (she should have known better), but that doesn't mean it's okay for him to just go with it. Especially since she doesn't seem to realize he isn't Sakuya. *smh*
