Chloe Harrison , Helen Cooper , Jessica Wood , J.S. Cooper , Suzi Case

Summer Fling Chloe Harrison , Helen Cooper , Jessica Wood , J.S. Cooper , Suzi Case
Five romance novellas from from sizzling writers.

Included in the anthology are:

The Promise of Tomorrow by J. S. Cooper (New Adult Contemporary Romance)

Lucy and Nick were two kids from opposite sides of the tracks. They became best friends and lovers and promised that nothing would ever break them up. But sometimes promises don't always last, or do they?

Love Across the Atlantic by Jessica Wood (New Adult Contemporary Romance)

Just a few days before Alex left for London to study abroad for the summer, she meets and falls for Nathan--the overly-confident, yet endearing guy that every other girl seems to want. Will the long distance ruin Alex's chances of a relationship with Nathan, or will Alex and Nathan develop a blossoming love across the Atlantic.

Confessions of an Online Dater by Chloe Harrison (Chick Lit)

As part of a bet, Anna spends her summer going on countless dates to prove that there are no dateable guys online. After 39 disastrous dates with guys who have cat obsessions, performance issues, and facial hair issues, she starts to call these guys, The Undateables, and believes that she will win the bet. Then she meets Jack, who seems at first to be another Undateable. But will Anna's date with Jack be another disaster, or will Jack be the one to cause Anna to lose the bet?

Summer Loving by Helen Cooper (Erotic Romance)

Jess is devastated when her boyfriend Zak dumps her right before her summer vacation with her best friends. She decides that the best way to get even is to have a one-night stand, only she may have picked the one man, that could make her life even more uncomfortable.

We Meet Again by Suzi Case (Chick Lit)

Gemma goes from odd job to odd job hoping to make ends meet. She struggles to keep her cool as the same obnoxious and handsome man keeps showing up as she fails each job disastrously.

From Reader Review Summer Fling for online ebook

DCT says

This was an absolutely wonderful read. Each story stood out on its own merits, each was different, but had a good synergy together. Each authors style is unique and captures different emotions. One was extremely funny about a clown/dog walker/singer, while one dealt with the difficult topic of alcoholism; online dating was also the center of one, while a young college student goes abroad to study after meeting her dream guy, and the ultimate having your heart broken by one brother to literally fall into the arms of his sexy older brother.

This was truly a fun read, and as each one ended, I was craving more. I think that the sign of a great short is that it draws you in, captures the essence of the charaters, and leaves you wanting so much more; each one of these stories did just that. Thanks to all 5 authors for these great stories.

Marci says

I was given an ARC in exchange for my honest review. all this short stories were great the only thing i really hope is that maybe in the future they will write a sequel because i loved each and every story. they were short and to the point you could follow each one with out feeling you were missing any details.

the promise of tomorrow was a book that i felt was a great read you start with two characters that fell in love and had plans for the future due to miss communications they ended up broken up and heartbroken. but years later they run into each other and find that the one that thought she was better off is fallen and is needing her best friend the love of her life.

love across the atlantic: you have two characters that meet at a sorority party and they hit it off right from the start. she had no clue that she was going to meet a guy that would have her to have feelings that would question her leaving to Europe but it did. they decide they will stay i contact and see where it takes them. after a couple of months she notices the emails are short and less calls. she decides that she will end the relationship before he has a chance or at least question whats going on. well she makes that call and to her surprise she hears another woman and that does it for her. she is hurt and feels horrible. to her surprise one night she gets the call that she would have never expected. but lets just say i cried and it was a good call. confessions of an online dater: this story was funny. it was a delight to see the different scenarios that she goes through in all these dates. all because she made a bet with her best friend. her friend swears that she will find love when she thinks she has the bet won and low and behold she finds her love.

summer loving: is a story of jess who has dated zak for a year just when she thinks all is well and even maybe wedding bells he throws her for a loop and breaks up with her. due to her background. which in its own way it works out perfect. she goes with her girlfriends out of town and she decides to have a one night stand and never would she imagine the man she chose would be some one he knows but only by name.

we meet again: this story starts with a poor girl that loses her job. so she has multiple temp jobs the first job she is takes a job as a clown she has never even held a job like that. needless to say she doesn't do to well at the children's party and she meets the birthday girls uncle. He starts to be mean and tell her that she is no good at being a clown. Well need less to say she gets fired then she try's walking dogs and low and behold he is there. Basically every Wrong turn she makes he is there in the end they end up together. You will love this book with all theses great authors under on book. How could you go wrong.

Ashley Hedden says

This was a great anthology that included five great stories by different authors. "The Promise of Tomorrow" by J.S. Cooper was a great story that captured me from the beginning. I loved reading about the love story between Nick and Lucy. This was a great story about love and rekindling. "Love Across the Atlantic" by Jessica Wood was another great story. I loved reading about Alex and Nathan, I loved that they could turn something that was just a beginning into love and a long distance relationship. "Confessions of an Online Dater" by Chloe Harrison was another great story. I loved reading about Anna's journey with online dating. Anna made a bet with her friend that she would not find a nice guy through online dating. She almost won the bet then she met Jack. "Summer Loving" by Helen Cooper was a great and ironic story. I loved seeing the confidence that Jess grew and what she did when she let inhibitions go. I loved the twist in the end, it was great. "We Met Again" by Suzi Case was another good story that followed two people who happened to have many chance encounters. This was a set of short stories that are a must read.

Melissa says

This was an exceptionally put together anthology but I will admit that I wanted so much more of every story that was included. In J. S. Cooper's short story "The Promise of Tomorrow", Nick and Lucy's story made me want to know the rest of their story. I really enjoyed how we were taken from the present, then to the day they met, then admitted their feelings, acted on their feelings and the betrayal. My heart broke for them but I was thrilled when they reconnected. Maybe there's another series here. ;) Jessica Wood's "Love Across the Atlantic" showed me what I had missed in her writing since reading "A Night to Remember". Nathan and Alex's long distance separation after beginning such a fragile relationship had me on the edge of my seat. Then I was angry because of his actions and then thrilled by his actions but again I wanted more of their story. In "Confessions of an Online Dater" by Chloe Harrison, I laughed at Anna's actions and Valerie's persistence. It makes you wonder about those people who sign up for those sites. "Summer Loving" by Helen Cooper had me immediately searching for more of her books with Jess and Jack. I could have read about them all day long and never tired of it. "We Meet Again" by Suzi Case, was just hilarious. Every time that Gemma ran into Jake, I laughed. The chemistry between the two was undeniable and I couldn't decide if one or both of them didn't want to act on it. But then everything happened at once. Maybe there should be another anthology with these same stories that continue their stories.

Teresa Gomez says

"J.S. Cooper's story 'The Promise of Tomorrow' was a surprise for me. It was a cute love story but not what I expected when I first started reading. I wish we could find out more of Lucys & Nicks future but then it wouldn't be a short story. :)" Jessica Woods "Love Across the Atlantic" was such a cute story. It was about a boy and girl (Nathan and Alex) who met each other at a college party to find out she was going to England in a couple of days and they had to figure out to make this new relationship work. Loved it but wish it wasn't a short story. :)" "Confessions of an Online Dater" by Chloe Harrison is such a tease but so cute. Anna made a bet with her friend that she couldn't meet a good guy online to date in New York and she has gone on a bunch of horrible dates. I know exactly how Anna feels since I had a bunch of horrible dates from the internet before I met my husband. It can happen. Can't wait to hear more about Anna and Jack. :)" "All I can say about "Summer Loving" by Helen Cooper is Omg hot, hot, hot! I want more. :) "We Meet Again" by Suzi Case is such a lovey dovey story. The main character Gemma meets the other character Jake and she just cant keep a job. Gemma keeps running into him with every job that she tries to get and he cant get enough of her. I love Gemmas character! I think this was my favorite story in the whole book.

I received an ARC in exchange for an honest review.

The first thing I need to say is awesome! This was the best collection of short stories I've read in a long time. In fact I wish they were longer, they were so yummy I wasn't ready for them to end. I can't even say which was my favorite as they were all great. I'll be checking out books by all these authors. If you're looking for a great quickie pick this up today.

I was given a copy for a honest review

I am giving this book a 4 3/4 star I enjoyed every story but I really loved the first one by J.S.cooper this was the first time reading anything by this author and loved it my only complaint was it was to short I wanted more I felt for both Nick and Lucy her writing pulled me in and at a few spots I found myself choked up it was so real I can't even put into words how this short story made me feel I will be reading more fro J.S Cooper soon and I also loved Love Across The Atlantic I have found I love to Jessica Wood she has a way of pulling me into her stories and hate to get to the end and also found some other authors I will be reading more of Chloe Harrison was great as was Helen Cooper and Suzi Case I would highly recommend this book to everyone it's a short romantic read that leaves you wanting more Thank you to all the authors

Louisa says

Summer fling is a refreshing anthology comprised of 5 novellas that explore rekindled love, heartbreak, unexpected new love and passion. The stories are concise and fulfilling; if only at times you wish they would simply not end. This little anthology was full of surprising and impactful stories.

J.S. Cooper's The Promise of Tomorrow, was an unexpected and endearing tale that tugs at the heart strings and explores some heavy issues. In contrast Jessica Wood's Love Across the Atlantic was a gorgeous, addictive, New Adult tale of love from a distance and college life. Confessions of an Online Dater by Chloe Harrison, was a hilarious tale of the unexpectedness that can ensue from online dating adventures, while Summer Loving by Helen Cooper was a steamy tale of a heart broken young woman who discovers the perks of hedonism. We Meet Again by Suzi Case is the final story in the anthology. This was another hilarious tale, detailing a young woman's struggles with employment in the tough economy and how it leads to the unexpected encounters with a quite persistent and attractive individual.

What I truly adored about this anthology was the contrasting array of genres it contained. There is New Adult, Chick Lit and Erotic Romance. It was a refreshing bundle of a read that will no doubt leave you craving to read more. In all honesty, Summer Fling did leave me feeling quite bereft and not ready at all for each story to end.

I highly recommend this book as the perfect summer read nonetheless. It is light and provides the ultimate escapism for its duration. This is a book that you could quite happily devour in one sitting.

Amy Barber says

Great set of five stories that left me wanting a bit more, they were so enjoyable. I found myself wishing there was an epilogue just so I could get a bit more from this cast of characters. Each story offered something different, but I was drawn in to each of them. I was instantly drawn in by the first story, The Promise of Tomorrow. Then you get hit with Love Across the Atlantic and it's one of those where you wish for a guy like Nathan to come into your life. Confessions of an Online Dater was amusing. The next one, Summer Loving, might be my favorite, romance and a bit of revenge all rolled into one. Finally, We Meet Again is another amusing chick lit story, probably my least favorite, but still worth the read! There's a bit more editing problems than I would generally like, but nothing that you won't be able to figure out. This is an enjoyable way to pass a couple of hours, you won't regret it. I received an ARC for an honest review.

I was given an Arc copy of this book for an honest review. If you are looking for something quick to read while sitting on the beach or by the pool. This book is what you are looking for then.

The Promise of Tomorrow by J.S. Cooper-

Who says opposites don't attract? Lucy fell in love with Nick not long after meeting him in high school and he fell in love with her the first time he saw her.

They had their ups, downs and misunderstandings and they even went their separate ways. Who knew years later they would run into each other again. Glad to see everything they went through things didn't change between them.

Love Across the Atlantic by Jessica Wood

Alex and Nathan seem like they are a cute couple with a good story. This story was too short and I would like to have known a little bit more about them.

Confessions of an Online Dater by Chloe Harrison

Some of those stories of the dates that Anna went on were funny. I found myself chuckling to myself. Jack seems to be a good catch for Anna. Hopefully there will be more of their story somewhere in the future. I would like to see what happens next with them.

Summer Loving by Helen Cooper

Wow! Jack and Jess were hot!

We Meet Again by Suz1 Case

Gemma and Jake are too much. You could feel the sexual tension between the two of them. They could have a hot story.

Kathy Corbett-shreve says

I loved this book! There were five novellas in this book. Some stories tugged at my heart bringing tears to my eyes! Some made me laugh and others made me say "Ah" or "How sweet"! They were all great stories - perfect for grabbing a cup of coffee and finding a comfy place and reading this book ! Five stars!

Diana Doan says

This was a fantastic collection of five romantic short stories. Very well written and left me wanting more, to find out what happens next.

"The Promise of Tomorrow" by J.S. Cooper

Lucy met Nick in high school and were definitely two different people from different sides of the track. However, they dated and fell in love. During college and because of a misunderstanding, they broke up and drifted apart. Two years later, they run into each other on the streets of New York and rediscover their feelings for one another.

I loved Lucy and Nick's story! It just comes to show that no matter where you're from, what life throws between you, or how much time has passed, true love conquers all. <3

"Across the Atlantic" by Jessica Wood

Alex met Nathan at a frat party a few days before she was due to leave for London for a summer abroad program. During their time apart, they kept in contact through emails and long-distance phone calls. However, as time passes, the emails and calls become more infrequent and Alex begins to doubt Nathan's feelings for her. In the end, Nathan proves himself with a surprise.

Alex and Nathan's story was so cute. I just wish there was a little more. I'd like to see what happens after Alex returns from London. :)

"Confessions of an Online Dater" by Chloe Harrison

Anna made a bet with her friend that there are no decent guys on online dating websites. Two weeks before the deadline, she meets Jack and admits she may have been wrong.

Anna and Jack's story has such huge potential. I felt like the story was cut short and was definitely left with wanting more. Most of the story was spent describing Anna's disastrous dates, which was funny. But Jack barely made his appearance and the story ended. Hopefully their story continues somewhere in the future. :)

"Summer Loving" by Helen Cooper

Jess was recently dumped by her boyfriend the day before their one year anniversary. To get over her heartache, she and two friends went to Barbados to take on a different persona and to let loose. She approaches a stranger, Jack, at the bar with the intentions of a one-night stand. And things got really hot!

Who could not relate to Jess's story? The story definitely heated up between Jess and Jack. The twist at the end caught me by surprise. And I wish there was more, to see if their relationship evolved into something more. :)

"We Meet Again" by Suzi Case

Due to the stock market crash, Gemma was unemployed and was stuck with odd-end jobs. All of which, she was not suited for. And every time she was at her worse, handsome Jake would show up. He would both excite and aggravate her. In the end, one of her dreams came true.

Gemma and Jake's story was also very cute. They kept bantering back and forth, but I could definitely feel the sexual tension between them. I was happy that Gemma found one of her happy endings, because up until the end, her life (job-wise) kept getting worse. She may not have found the perfect job yet, but she had Jake.

I received an arc copy for an honest review. I enjoyed the short five stories. These are steamy and sexy. These are stories to enjoy on the beach or at home while sipping a margarita. For $0.99 the stories are worth it. You will not be disappointed. All of the authors bring something different to the stories. The best thing about it is that they are all awesome authors. There is a little something of everything wrapped into one book.

Summer Fling (An Anthology of Five Sizzling Romance Short Stories) These were 5 great short stories. I really enjoyed the selections from all of the authors. A little bit of romance and some had a little bit of laughter. I could really see a couple of them being put into a longer storyline. Overall these stories are good for an afternoon reading when you don't really have a lot of time. I was given an ARC of this book for an honest review.

Natasha says

Five amazing stories from five amazing authors!!! I loved each story. Every story is different, you will fall in love with the characters and in the end you will want more of the story. So I'm really hoping there will be more!!!

Confessions of an online Dater: So funny, I love the bet and the red flags. I love Push-ups too :)

We meet again: friggen HILARIOUS!!! The odd jobs I was laughing so hard I almost peed my pants

Summer lovin: I loved how it was a girls get way...I don't want to put a spoiler... I had a feel who Jack was going to be. I'd love to see Zak's face if he found out.

Promise of tomorrow: My heart broke a little, it's a cute love story

Love across the Atlantic: I wanted to slap Nathan... I clearly got over it and loved him again

I didn't want any of these stories to end and any of them could be made into longer stories, so I'll keep my figure crossed that more will come. Great job ladies!!
