Oh my!! This is one of those episodes that reminds you why Robert Kirkman is so good at what he does.

***Spoiler Alert***

So I've said it more than once, I wish someone would kill Negan! But sometimes he is just such an entertaining character, swearing and Lucille included.

"You fuckers got your asses handed to you with a side order of my dick up those asses.

But then Rick goes out and talks him down and it all sounds really good. I mean testify Rick, testify!! And he does it, he talks Negan round!! Jaw drop moment!! I'd like to quote Negan again but I'm not sure if:

Fuck! Fuck! Fuck! Fuck!

actually counts. Anyway, I digress and I'm getting close to my point I swear! So you flick over that last page with pictures of a peaceful union between the two factions and Kirkman's done that thing that keeps you coming back to the series. The last page "holy hell" moment. Please, please, please tell me he's dead. Tell me Rick finished it. And what a way to go! Negan (and I) did not see that coming!!

My only problem is the two week wait for the conclusion!

Laina says

I can't believe I'm saying this, but I actually agree with Dwight. Negan's being even more gross than usual, and I'm just so over this shit already. Can we please just declare a winner in the war and move on?

Negan's ego irritates me to no end. Someone just needs to put this fucker down already. I don't know how much more of his snug bullshit I can stand. Someone just kill this asshole and show him that he's not invincible.

I'm glad that Eugene and his group were able to meet up with Jesus and Michonne. I hope that with this small group, they can take out a lot if not all of the zombies in the current area. They have enough people now, I believe.

Aww, the scene between Nicholas his wife made me sad. I actually like his character in the comics and am sad that he's going to die soon, and leave his wife and son behind. I hope his wife and son become friends with Rick and Carl, and they turn into a kick ass killing duo.

The scene between Rick, Andrea and Carl, had me feeling a bit relieved. I feel like Rick's going to be okay, and I just think that the mantra Andrea's always saying, "We don't die," is kind of weird.

I'm sad that Nicholas died and left behind his wife and son. I just really hope they use their anger and sadness and grief over losing him, and turn it into something they can use to help fight.

I'm glad that Eugene was able to make it back to Rick and give him some information on what's been going on since he and his group of people were taken by Negan and the Savivors.

I like what Carl said to Mikey. I know it probably scared the other kid, but I think it's something that needed to be said and I think it's something Mikey will remember when he starts getting angry and wants to help fight.

Huh, well I'm glad that Dwight didn't end up killing Rick, when he shot him with that arrow. I'm also just barely starting to trust Dwight and think that maybe yes, he is trying to help Rick and his people.

I just don't know how I feel about Rick's people telling Dwight that Rick's still alive. I just feel like Dwight's waiting to see which side ends up winning, and he'll go and stay with that side.

I like that they're planning to go after Negan and his men again, and I hope that they can finally do something to weaken Negan and his men, or finally take those assholes out already. I'm just ready for Rick's group to win.

I like that Rick has Carl staying back at the Hiltop to help defend it. Carl doesn't need to be right in the line of fire against Negan, as I know that Negan's gotten over whatever he had felt for Carl in the beginning.

I really like Earl, and I hope that he doesn't somehow end up screwing Rick and the group over. Because he's a definite asset to Rick and everyone else at the community. I just hope he's one of the good guys.

I like Brianna and Maggie's conversation and that they're not going to hide from Negan and his people. I like that they're finally willing to stand up and fight for their lives, for their community.

If Negan and his men think that everyone in the Hiltop is going to surrender to him and his people, they have another thing coming. It also helps that they don't know that Rick's still alive.

I like what Rick said to Andrea and Carl and that he hugged both of them. I really hope that when he goes out to meet with Negan, that Negan doesn't decide to kill him right then and there.

Whoo, hoo! I'm so glad that Rick didn't take Negan up on his offer to go back to the way things were. I'm just worried that Rick saying that will piss Negan off, and he'll kill Rick on the spot.

Oh man! I can't believe that Rick just called Negan stupid to his face. I know damn well that things aren't going to go well after that. Negan's not just going to let Rick stand there and insult him.

I like what Rick's saying to Negan, but I just don't think he's going to buy it. Negan wants everything for himself and his people, and I don't see him agreeing with Rick in any way.

Holy fucking shit! I couldn't believe that Negan was starting to agree with what Rick was saying and then Rick tried to fucking stab him! I don't think Rick killed him, and I know now that Negan's definitely going to try and kill Rick in retaliation.

Now, that's what I'm talking about! This was an awesome issue, and the way it ends is absolutely PERFECT. I loved the build up, the tension, the realisation that dawns on Rick--it all makes one excellent gripping story that had me on the edge of my seat.

OMG. I have to read the next one. Now.

Seriously, is it out yet? LOL.

Jamie Boyd says

Finally, a comic in this series I found jaw dropping.

Amy says

This issue has left me on the edge of my seat until the next one. The final chapter of All Out War will hopefully be massive and, honestly, I'm hoping for the comic to have a huge shift and change to what it has been doing to far.

Diana Caballero-hernández says

That was great, period.

Jeffrey says

Rick is a beast!

Touchka says

This comic is doing bad things to me. The tension raises every two weeks with the most dramatic story arc to date. I really didn't want to turn pages as I was too scared of Negan's unpredictable and completely f**ed up actions.

I give this issue 5 Sheriff's stars.

Eric Hartman says

It's almost over...I gave it five stars because of the final page...ABOUT FRICKING TIME!

Patricia says

jajajajajajaja me lo veía venir pero igual estuvo bueno, igual no me creo que Negan estuviera considerando lo que le decía Rick.

Nikki (nikkitheknack's In the Stacks) says

I really enjoyed this issue.

I like that there was this tension, like you know something big is about to happen. I also liked the scene where Rick was explaining all the potential his and Negan's partnership could have had. He finally made Negan realize there was another, better way to live, and then as a big "f*** you," Negan is going to die!

FINALLY Negan's going to die. I don't know about you, but I've been sick of Negan for a while now. I was fine with him as a villain for maybe the first half of the issues he's been in (except when he killed Glenn, that was so not ok...will I ever get over that? Probably not), but I find him really irritating. Even when we hate the villain (which is usually the case), we're supposed to enjoy reading the storyline that they're part of, but I'm just tired of him.

And while I like that Rick convinced Negan there was another way, I feel like it was out of character for Negan to actually concede to that. Even while I was reading Negan's epiphany, I thought he was being sarcastic about having done things wrong. He's always struck me as someone who enjoys violence (even though he says he doesn't), given the fact that he brutally murdered Glenn, and the way he treats the wives and the men like Dwight who tried to defend them. I guess I've always felt like there was no way Rick would get through to him.

All things said, I really enjoyed this issue and I'm excited for the next one.

Rick M says

YES! YES! YES!

Erika L. Miller says

Rick is cold blooded. The war is coming to a conclusion after lives lost on both sides. War is hell as there are those fighting for "their" way of life and those who would much rather hide with their heads in the sand, willing to allow the victor the spoils.
