Time Remembered Jean Anouilh , Patricia Moyes (Translator)

Original French title, "Leocadio." Produced on Bwy in 1957, it was a success with Helen Hayes, Richard Burton and Susan Strasberg (as a modiste hired to divert a prince from the death of an actress). Says Anouilh, "My plays are not realistic..they're an imaginative interpretation of reality."

Sketchbook says

A daft duchess summons a shopgirl to her chateau with a keen purpose: she must console her nephew, a prince (of course), whose presumed darling of 3 days (a look alike), strangled herself while tying a scarf. (That I really like.)

A UK critic recently said the comedy's "ornate artificiality is strangely gripping," which is why I find Anouilh modern and fascinating. The great lyricist Larry Hart wrote, "Falling in love with love is falling for make-believe..." So, here, the make-believe continues. Once again, Anouilh says we need illusion to stay alive. In US few actors can do high comedy without flying a fart.

Myyst says

Μια ?μορφη ρομαντικ? κωμωδ?α ?που η παρ?δοση του σουρεαλισμο? και οι πολ?χρωμες γαλλικ?ς ταιν?ες, ?πως η Αμελ?, βρ?σκουν ?ναν ενδι?μεσο τους κρ?κο. Η ιστορ?α, χαριτωμ?νη και αφ?νοντας ενδιαφ?ρουσες προεκτ?σεις, δεν κατορθ?νει τελικ? να κ?νει κ?ποιο κλικ που να της προσδ?δει περισσ?τερο ενδιαφ?ρον τ?σες δεκαετ?ες μετ? την εποχ? που γρ?φτηκε.
