All the Things a Woman Oughtn't Do – The Ballad of Zerelda Glanton J.C. Loen , Ingvild Eiring

All the Things a Woman Oughtn't Do – The Ballad of Zerelda Glanton is a photographic journey in hardship and badassery by photographer Julie Loen and model Ingvild Eiring.

Two years in the making and shot entirely on Polaroid film in snow, rain, sunshine and dusty interiors – capturing the seasons and a myriad of locations – the fleeting figure of Zerelda Glanton comes to life as a gun-toting, horse-riding, anvil-banging, booze-swigging cowgirl, whore and lady.

If you're partial to undraped ladies and shooting irons, and take kindly to the grittier side of photography, this ought to be right up your alley.
