I didn't thought jabba the hutt could say "preposterous".

There was a battle between Hutt and GameMaster, Hutt and Luke, GameMaster and Luke, and we have back up like stormtroopers, Han, and Leia!

the funny part is when Han used the LightSaber he said:Great. Next an old wizard will be telling me to use the force.

In force you shall believe, Han :P

Jonathan Roberts says

Good read. I liked how this story wrapped up and I love the Vader Down storyline.

Finished another set of these comics with Olivia-Grace. I really didn't care for the plot in this arc (Luke finding out too much about the Jedi, fighting and using lightsabers, run-in with Dengar and the Hutts on Nar Shadda, so soon after the Battle of Yavin). Olivia-Grace didn't seem to like the series as much as the Vader series as well.

Don says

Really good ending to this story arc. Vader Down is up next. Looks to be a good one ¿Cuántas estrellas esperaban que le diera después de ver una pelea en la que las únicas armas funcionales eran los Sables de Luz? Estamos hablando de que R2 logro equipar a Like, Leia, Han y hasta a Chewbacca para luchar contra los stormtroopers de una manera digna de un jedi.

Me encanta como lograron enlazar esta historia con la de Darth Vader que Marvel Star Wars ha estado llevando a cabo sin quitarle trama a este arco.

Un gran numero con el apoyo de Immonen y Von Grawbadger en el departamento de arte que solo logran hacer que el fanático ame la historia aun mas.

Jason says

Pretty good story. Very Star Wars-y...excellent mix of action, character, emotion, and drama. With that episodic style keeping you interested and excited about the next story.

Marvel Star Wars continues to be all win.

Solace Winter says

Well some complainers can all calm down now. I thought this issue was brilliant. I sort of wish I hadn't seen the next movie so a little more thrill was there.

Lea Ann says

Kind of lost the coolness of Obi Wan's journals, but maybe that picks up in the extended graphic novel.

Beverly says

Light sabers for everyone!!

Bianca says

Really great set up for the Vader Down arc.

We finally find out what's going on with Sana.

Tons of great eye candy!

This was QUITE an action-packed issue. Not a big fan of the confrontation with Dengar. I liked seeing Chewie throw him, but the explosion was a bit much, knowing that he survives. But the arena is where all the really great stuff happens. Luke faces Kongo the Disembowler, whose shock collar is activated by the Gamemaster, revealed to be a stormtrooper named Sergeant Kreeel. Grakkus feels betrayed when more troopers arrive. He activates an EMP that deactivates all blasters. It is humorous when one trooper thinks that taking down the Hutt will be easy, but Grakkus has more physical prowess than other Hutts. Audience members even start betting on Grakkus, and it is absolutely hilarious. Kreeel realizes too late that the EMP deactivated the shock collar on Kongo, who goes after him. Meanwhile, R2-D2 comes across Grakkus' collection of lightsabers, and I cannot help but wonder whether they belong to any familiar Jedi. Social media had already spoiled for me that Leia, Han, and Chewie would be wielding lightsabers, but at least that was not even the best part of this. I am okay with them using lightsabers since they do not automatically get Force powers. At one point, Han says a witty remark about trying hard not to cut his own face. Chewie wields TWO lightsabers. And seeing Leia wield a lightsaber in canon is a dream come true. I hope to see her wield one again when she perhaps has more training in the Force. When more stormtroopers arrive with working blasters, Han takes Luke to the Falcon even though Luke wants to get the rest of the Jedi artifacts. Leia grants mercy to Sana Starros, who reveals that the wedding was a scam for a robbery and that Han had taken off with her cut, hence why she was after him. Kreeel reports to Vader with the Jedi artifacts, thus setting more events in motion! Vader even crushes a holocron with his hand!

- Another amazing cover!
 - The way Chewy took care of Dengar was so awesome! Never piss off a Wookiee!
 - I love the environment in these comics. Not only do the characters look amazing, but the settings do too.
 - OMG! Leia, Han, and Chewy are wielding lightsabers!!! I can't even express how awesome this is! I'm geekin' out!
 - I like the gamemaster. Even though he is evil, I still like him.
 - The story just keeps getting better! Well done Jason Aaron!

I really like this series, but the emp bit in this makes no sense without explaining why the droids are shielded against emp but the stormtroopers' weapons aren't. In a setting where weaponized emps exist, this isn't remotely believable. It's just a weak excuse to give Leia and Han lightsabers.
