As rakishly handsome as he was successful, attorney Kullen Manetti was a "love 'em and leave 'em" kind of guy. Until Lilli McCall, his long-lost love, suddenly appeared in his office—and turned his carefully crafted world upside down.

Lilli had her reasons for leaving Kullen years ago—reasons she'd never dreamed of sharing with him. But now the single mom needed his expert help to fight for what mattered most—her young son.

As her custody battle heated up, so did the still-blazing chemistry with Kullen. Against her best-laid plans, she fell hopelessly in love all over again. Only, this time, would she find the courage to stay?

Lilli McCall is back in Bedford after living in Santa Barbara for awhile. She's looking for a lawyer because she's trying to get custody of her seven-year-old son. Her mother suggests she go see lawyer Kullen Manetti, who was Lilli's sweetheart eight years ago. They met in law school and fell in love. But she had to leave him for reasons she kept to herself. Although Kullen is still hurt he is also still attracted to Lilli. After he finds out the reason why she left he begins to understand and his feelings soften towards her.

I liked Lilli. She really loved her son Jonathan and did everything she could for him. I also liked Kullen. He was tall, dark, and handsome, a nice guy who never really got over Lilli, and he was great with Lilli's adorable son Jonathan. It was nice to see them finally get their happily ever after. This was a sweet and enjoyable read.
