A Discreet Betrayal Marianne Curtis

A Discreet Betrayal is a cautionary modern day love story.

Using her personal Internet dating experiences as inspiration, Marianne Curtis recounts the story of Emma, a magazine journalist who specializes in investigative pieces.

At the urging of her best friend, single Emma joins an online dating site where she meets Stephan, the man of her dreams. Unfortunately a revealing email suggests her fiancé is leading a sordid double life.

While investigating the depth of his duplicity, Emma is surprisingly reunited with an old college roommate, with whom she shares a life changing secret. When Hannah's estranged husband attempts to kill her, Emma risks her own life to protect her friend from his wrath.

In a shocking twist, Emma discovers more to her fiancé's deception than first anticipated , including a stunning connection that leaves everyone gasping in shock and horror.

How far would you go to discover the truth?

Wow! This novel has the biggest surprise I never saw coming. The story is about Emma, an investigative journalist, and her boyfriend, Stephan. There are also Emma's friends, Debbie and Hannah, as well as Emma's dog. (Love it when characters have pets!!) Hannah calls Emma asking for help and then, well, all hell breaks loose. Only Emma doesn't know it - until way too late. While I figured out one thing, I never in a million years would have guessed the truth.

Yes, part of the story is about Emma and Stephan's romance. Hannah's hiding from her abusive husband is the other. The thrills are plentiful. The mystery will confuse anybody. The horror! Set in Canada, and written by Canadian author Marianne Curtis, this book is deeply thought provoking.

Recommended to everybody. Brace yourself.
